The Arizona in Israel-and Zambia Study Abroad program offered by The Arizona Center for Judaic Studies provides a hands-on introduction to Israel's dynamic society. Israel is a modern country deeply rooted in ancient cultures, and it is situated in one of the world's most important historical and geopolitical crossroads. Students will split the month in Israel between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, and will enroll in credit-bearing courses that incorporate numerous field trips and fieldwork assignments. Throughout the month in Israel, the focus will be on engaging in authentic Israeli experiences, and learning about Israel from a wide range of perspectives. Students will be introduced to ancient, medieval, and modern archaeological and historical sites, and they will visit unique collections of Judaic and Near Eastern materials in Israel's world-renowned museums. They will also be introduced to modern Israeli communities, and to institutions and non-governmental organizations (NGOs), including the Israeli Knesset (Parliament).

After studying, traveling, and training in Israel, students will travel together to Zambia, where they stay for five weeks. They will train in Lukasa, and then work on a development project in the village of Mphande. Arizona in Israel-and Zambia is collaborating with two NGOs, Tevel B'Tzedek and Africa Access Water (AFAW), to provide UArizona and other students with on-the-ground, applied learning experiences in communal development in central Africa.

ACADEMIC CREDIT:

- The Israel component of the trip is a two course (6-credit) program.
- Six additional internship credits are available, for five weeks of development work in Zambia.
- GRADUATE STUDENTS: For graduate courses and graduate credits, consult Prof. Graizbord.
- UA credits in JUS, POL, HIST, MENA, RELI, SGPP are available. For details, consult Prof. Graizbord.
- For credit in other departments and colleges at UA, or at other universities, consult with individual academic advisors.

FROM ISRAEL TO ZAMBIA

During their four weeks in Israel, students will stay in the Abraham Hostels in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. They are in great neighborhoods in each city, and offer access to fun and engaging sights, and to a real feel for life in two very different cities. Hostel rooms will be shared with fellow students. A hearty Israeli breakfast is included! Throughout the two weeks in each city, students will visit museums, NGOs working on issues ranging from politics to LGBTQ+ and gender rights, and more etc. They will visit governmental offices, start-ups, businesses, and law firms. They will have opportunities to meet with interesting and engaging people from all walks of life, who comprise Israel's diverse social and cultural fabric. Students will share in unique cultural activities in each city, and experience the contrasting approaches to Shabbat that highlight a range of approaches to Israel's day of rest.

With support from a special grant from UA RISE (Arizona Institute for Resilient Environments and Societies; <https://environment.arizona.edu/rise>), Arizona in Israel—and Zambia is collaborating with two NGOs, Tevel B'Tzedek and Africa Access Water (AfAW), to provide UArizona and other students with on-the-ground, applied learning experiences in communal development in central Africa. During their month in Israel, students will train for their work in Zambia, through a series of orientation seminars.

They will then travel to Lukasa, Zambia, where they will attend additional workshops. From Lukasa, they will travel overland to the village of Mphande. In Mphande, students will join multicultural teams working on on-going and/or new development projects. Tevel b'Tzedek will train students to work alongside local and international activists, with the goal of creating sustainable change for rural communities. Students will work on Tevel's projects, joining together with local partners and supervised by Tevel's Israeli staff and by UArizona faculty. The goal of these projects is the empowerment of Mphande's villages. All work is done in accordance with the spirit of local culture, and with the Jewish value of Tikun ha-Olam (Repairing the World), while taking advantage of Israeli entrepreneurial expertise and know-how.

Areas of Special Interest:

Judaic Studies, Engineering, Agriculture, Hydrology and Arid Lands, Water Resources, Business, Geography, Political Science, Anthropology, Religious Studies, Africana Studies, Women and Gender Studies – and many more.

Post-Summer Internships:

Upon returning to the States, participants should consult with their home departments and/or with Judaic Studies, in order to design and undertake internships focused on community resilience in Arizona, using those skills and experiences acquired through the Israel-Zambia Program.

Ideal Summer Program Participants are Mature and Committed Students Who:

- Seek meaningful service opportunities focused on socio-economic challenges in the global south.
- Wish to acquire first-hand knowledge of the connection between service, Jewish and Zambian values, and Israeli entrepreneurship.
- Are eager to engage with people in rural communities, and to share in improving their lives.
- Work well in multicultural teams.
- Are willing to undertake challenging roles that will provide new skills and experiences in various fields of learning and endeavor.
